Workshops

Mission and vision for teaching

Format: in person
Location: Bauhaus-Universität Weimar, Room 105, main building, Geschwister-Scholl-Str. 8, Weimar
Language: deutsch, englisch
With: Dr. Simon Frisch, Dr. Andreas Mai, Laura Muske
What should teaching and learning at the Bauhaus-Universität Weimar look like? What mindset and values are important to us? Good teaching and successful studying are a joint task to which all members of the university contribute: teaching staff, students and administrative staff. In this workshop, we invite all status groups to further develop the ideas on the vision and mission from the STEP process and to participate in the start of the participatory process on the mission and vision statement for teaching.

Teaching and learning with Theme-Centered Interaction according to Ruth C. Cohn

Format: in person
Location: Bauhaus-Universität Weimar, Lounge K01, university library, Steubenstr. 6, Weimar
Language: deutsch
With: Dr. Holger Kafka

Theme-Centered Interaction (TCI) is a concept for self-management and the management of groups and processes. Educational processes in particular benefit from the professional methodology and a value-based attitude. As a lecturer at the Ruth Cohn Institute International, Dr. Holger Kafka (Erfurt) will introduce you to the special features of teaching with TCI.

The secret of successful conversations

Format: in person
Location: University of Applied Sciences Nordhausen,
Council room, building 19,
Weinberghof 4, Nordhausen
Language: deutsch
With: Diana Skyba, Prof. Dr. Cordula Borbe

On a scale of 1 to 10, how would you rate your communication skills? And can you imagine that a workshop on this topic could elevate your competence to a higher level? In this workshop, Diana Skyba and Prof. Dr. Cordula Borbe will address the basic competencies of successful communication in both professional and personal contexts. This will provide you with insights into the skills taught to students of Social Work and Inclusive Studies at the University of Applied Sciences Nordhausen, and will offer you the opportunity to further improve your communication abilities. Interactive exercises will allow you to practice newly acquired skills such as active listening, paraphrasing and verbalizing, as well as applying various questioning techniques.

We cordially invite all university members to the impulse presentations, workshops and panel discussion on the Day of Teaching and Learning 2024.
Participation is free of charge.

Die Teilnahme ist kostenlos.

TAG DES LEHRENS & LERNENS

Touching tracks

Format: in person
Location: Bauhaus-Universität Weimar, Room 003, Hybrides Lernatelier, Amalienstr. 13, Weimar
Language: deutsch, english
With: Dr. Alexander König, Jan Sieber, Studierende des Fachmoduls

The installation provides participants with an immersive and interactive experience within an experimental and virtual art space. Participants will learn the principles of real-time tracking, networking, sensor fusion and data manipulation with a versatile visual programming environment. Participants will take part in interactive student installations, exploring the boundaries of artistic expression through the fusion of technology and creativity.

2:30 - 3:30 pm:
Mini workshops

Interactive lecture: Racism-critical teaching

Format: online
Location: online at <https://webconf.hs-nordhausen.de/b/mkn-gkn-d50-ahc>
& University of Applied Sciences Nordhausen, Seminarraum 4 Haus 19, 19.0007, Weinberghof 4, Nordhausen
Language: deutsch
With: Maurice Soulié, Dr. Miriam Benteler, Prof. Dr. Sabrina Schramme

Racism and discrimination are phenomena that affect society as a whole and are also structurally anchored in higher education contexts. At the same time, education systems are important places for diversification in order to counteract disadvantages, exclusions and forms of discrimination at different levels. This lecture looks at racism in the context of university teaching and provides impulses for racism-critical university teaching.

Sustainable simulation-driven product & process development as a learning path for future engineers

Format: in person
Location: University of Applied Sciences Nordhausen, Lecture hall 4, building 34, Weinberghof 4, Nordhausen
Language: deutsch
With: Frank Einicke

„Applied Science in thought and action is my motivation and driving force,” says Frank Einicke. In his workshop, he will share insights from his innovative teaching experiences at the University of Applied Sciences Nordhausen. The framework revolves around Digital Engineering, aiming to leverage the full potential of technical creativity, precise data models, and smart workflows. This ensures that a good idea translates into an excellent product – benefiting manufacturers, customers, and the environment. Frank Einicke will provide a 30-minute presentation showcasing the CAE learning path at the University of Applied Sciences Nordhausen, demonstrating how we systematically prepare our future engineers for the job market. Following the presentation, you are warmly invited to engage in a joint discussion on this exciting topic.

Interactive lecture: How resilient is our democracy? Instruments of resilient democracy from a constitutional perspective

Format: hybrid
Location: University of Applied Sciences Nordhausen, Seminar room 4, building 19, Weinberghof 4, Nordhausen & online unter <https://webconf.hs-nordhausen.de/b/mkn-xon-564-9sq>
Language: deutsch
With: Prof. Dr. Viola Sporleder-Geb

“Nearly four out of five persons consider democracy in Germany increasingly threatened.” (representative population survey by DeZIM, May 2023) These survey results highlight the importance of questions regarding our democracy. This interactive lecture will focus on the question of how democracy can be protected and defended. Prof. Dr. Viola Sporleder-Geb will provide insights into the fundamental constitutional values, threats to democracy, and instruments of resilient democracy enshrined in the German Grundgesetz (Basic Law). Following the presentation, there will be a collaborative discussion to determine whether the existing instruments are adequate or if enhancements are necessary.

Teaching exchange —

Teaching together in cooperation projects

all day
Format: hybrid
Location: Bauhaus-Universität Weimar, Room 003, Hybrides Lernatelier, Amalienstr. 13, Weimar
& University of Applied Sciences Nordhausen, Council room, building 19, Weinberghof 4, Nordhausen
Language: deutsch
With: Kathleen Hahnemann

It takes two or more Thuringian universities, different disciplines and the desire to try something out: Cooperative impulse projects are innovations in teaching, learning and examination scenarios that are financially supported by the eTeach network. Lecturers from BUW and HSN are invited to bring along their initial ideas. We will take time to get to know each other and explore possible alliances.

Podcast station "Zwischen Magie und Handwerk"

Format: in person
Location: Bauhaus-Universität Weimar, Lobby, university library, Steubenstr. 6, Weimar
Language: deutsch
With: Dr. Nicole Baron, Dr. Simon Frisch

Immerse yourself in the world of teaching - where rainforests train perception, where the beauty of a complete induction becomes a landscape garden, where reading becomes writing and writing becomes lecturing, and where spoon enthusiasm fills an entire semester. And, where the senses of eyes, ears, touch and much more combine with questions about teaching methods, and where learning goals and questions about the craft and magic of teaching and learning come together.

In this podcast, Dr. Simon Frisch talks with teachers at the Bauhaus University Weimar about what teaching means, how it can succeed and why it sometimes fails. listen in and be inspired by the exciting conversations.

Prompting station: AI in teaching and learning — Experimenting in a space of possibilities

Format: in person
Location: University of Applied Sciences Nordhausen, Audimax, Weinberghof 4, Nordhausen
Language: deutsch, english
With: Svea Benett, Thomas Herwig (Hike LAB)

Artificial intelligence and its potentials as well as risks are currently hot topics. But what are implications for teaching and learning at universities? Ethical questions, qualification opportunities, and the limits of AI usage are just some of the relevant topics. But how about giving it a try? For this purpose, the eTeach network has developed a Prompting-station. This serves as an experimentation space that allows you to utilize various licensed tools, implement ideas, and discuss critical questions. Come by, try it out, and explore the possibilities of this technology.
