

Announcements of the examination committee
Medieninformatik/Computer Science and Media/
Computer Science for Digital Media

Introduction

The examination regulations applicable to all students depend on the regulations in force at the time of registration, unless a request to change to previous examination and study regulations was made and authorised.

The following published decisions present amendments and additions to the interpretation and application of the examination and study regulations for the field of Computer Science and Media.

Decision from 20.11.2013

On 20.11.2013, the examination committee took the decision to recognise examination results for the optional module in the Bachelor's programme and the elective module in the Master's programme in CSM/CS4DM. As of the beginning of the 2014 Summer Semester, the following courses, which are not taught by university teachers, will only be recognised with 50% of their respective credit points:

- computer-science-related courses taught by teachers who are not qualified to examine in Computer Science and Media/Computer Science for Digital Media
- courses which are mainly concerned with the introduction to the operation of a programme

Decision from 22.04.2015

From the winter semester 2015/16 onwards, the degree programme in Computer Science and Media/Computer Science for Digital Media will recognise language courses only in English and German as a Foreign Language. A maximum of 6 ECTS (credit points) will be awarded for such courses.

With all other languages, the examination committee will decide on a case-by-case basis. This must involve a separate application by the student and a justification of recognition.

Decision of 17.06.2015

The examination committee wishes it to be known that the prerequisites prescribed for the study programme in CS4DM must successfully be fulfilled with the given grade.

If the required grade is not achieved at the first attempt, the examination is to be repeated. In accordance with the examination regulations (§ 13 (2)), students are granted a maximum of three examination attempts.

Decision of 04.05.2016

The examination committee wishes to stress that only the information given in the official course catalogue (Vorlesungsverzeichnis) regarding the allocation of courses to the different modules is valid. Please note that this information is only valid for the current semester.

Any conflicting information which might be given on the website of the study programme, as part of the examination registration process on BISON or the allocation of grades on BISON's computerized database has no validity.

Any applications for the recognition courses in other modules (other than those indicated in the course catalogue) will not be considered by the examination committee. This decision is to be implemented with immediate effect.
