

An Input Device for Collaborative
Design Reviews in Virtual Reality

Spheron enables intuitive interaction with computer aided simulations of architecture and industrial goods. 3D objects can be rotated through a 3D trackball as if the user would hold them in his hands. A surrounding ring allow to control 3D translations in parallel.

The Spheron is a specialized device for presentation and review situations in project teams.

