

Strategic Partnerships at the Intersection of Art.Design.Science

STRATEGY

The goals of Bauhaus-Universität Weimar's internationalisation strategy include to advance all of its degree programmes with international elements, to create an international environment for all of its university members and to strengthen its international network with renowned partners. The Strategic Partnerships project addresses all of these aspects. With its targeted and attractive measures and activities the project contributes to shaping the internationalisation process in a multifaceted and comprehensive way.

GOALS

The overall objective of the Strategic Partnerships project is to strengthen Bauhaus-Universität Weimar's relationships with three of its long-term partner universities and to establish a strategic foundation for its collaborative activities. Specific goals include:

- the establishment and development of long-term research co-operations and networks, e.g. in the areas of computer science of civil engineering, materials science, interaction design, and fine art
- the development of new double degree programmes, e.g. the programme »Interactions and Interfaces For Digital Environments«
- the establishment of innovative and interdisciplinary workshop formats, e.g. in the areas of building information modeling, urban infrastructure, and bordercities/borderline conflicts
- the institutionalisation of an administrative personnel exchange
