

I try to put more rice grains on the balloon, and then cover the carton with a film with water droplets, hoping that slime mould can cover the sphere.

The second attempt was to put Slime into the balloon and hope it would live in it, but I mistakenly used the my breath out gas as its environment, so because there was not enough oxygen, it faced death.

