Opinion:

This app seems to want to do a very good job of keeping the content in order, making its structure also quite apparent and foreseeable. However, it can still be a bit confusing at times, even with the navigation bar at the top. I definitely think this could be a good structure for an app related to Weimarpedia, although it would need more options related to participation.

The easy use of the map with the „closest“ option is also really interesting, since it really facilitates walking around Weimar efficiently without knowing the city beforehand.
