

Haus Museum Weimar

Tourism Promotion - Illustration Design - Web Design

Jiannan Zhang - Prof. Dr. Jens Geelhaar

IDMC - Interface Design Masterclass - Media Faculty

Bauhaus Universität Weimar

2018 Summer Semester

Houses in Weimar

Inspiration

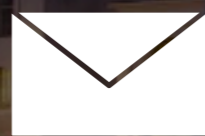

As a foreign student and a tourist in Europe, I am truly impressed by Weimar, regardless the Bauhaus culture or long history of this city itself. The one part I love the most, is the local buildings that definitely show people's attitude to life qualities, that they respect every details of life and bring their own characters into the architectures here, Just look at the colorful walls, decorated windows, well-designed gardens, there is no way to not be touched.

Project Target

My idea is to select 100 houses in Weimar and create illustration works as a set of souvenirs, such as a picture book and postcards. In the meantime I would like to present them online as a website using html programming skills. In all it is a tourism promotion project.

Picture Book

Postcards

City Map

Website

Picture - <https://www.weimar-touristinformation.de/>

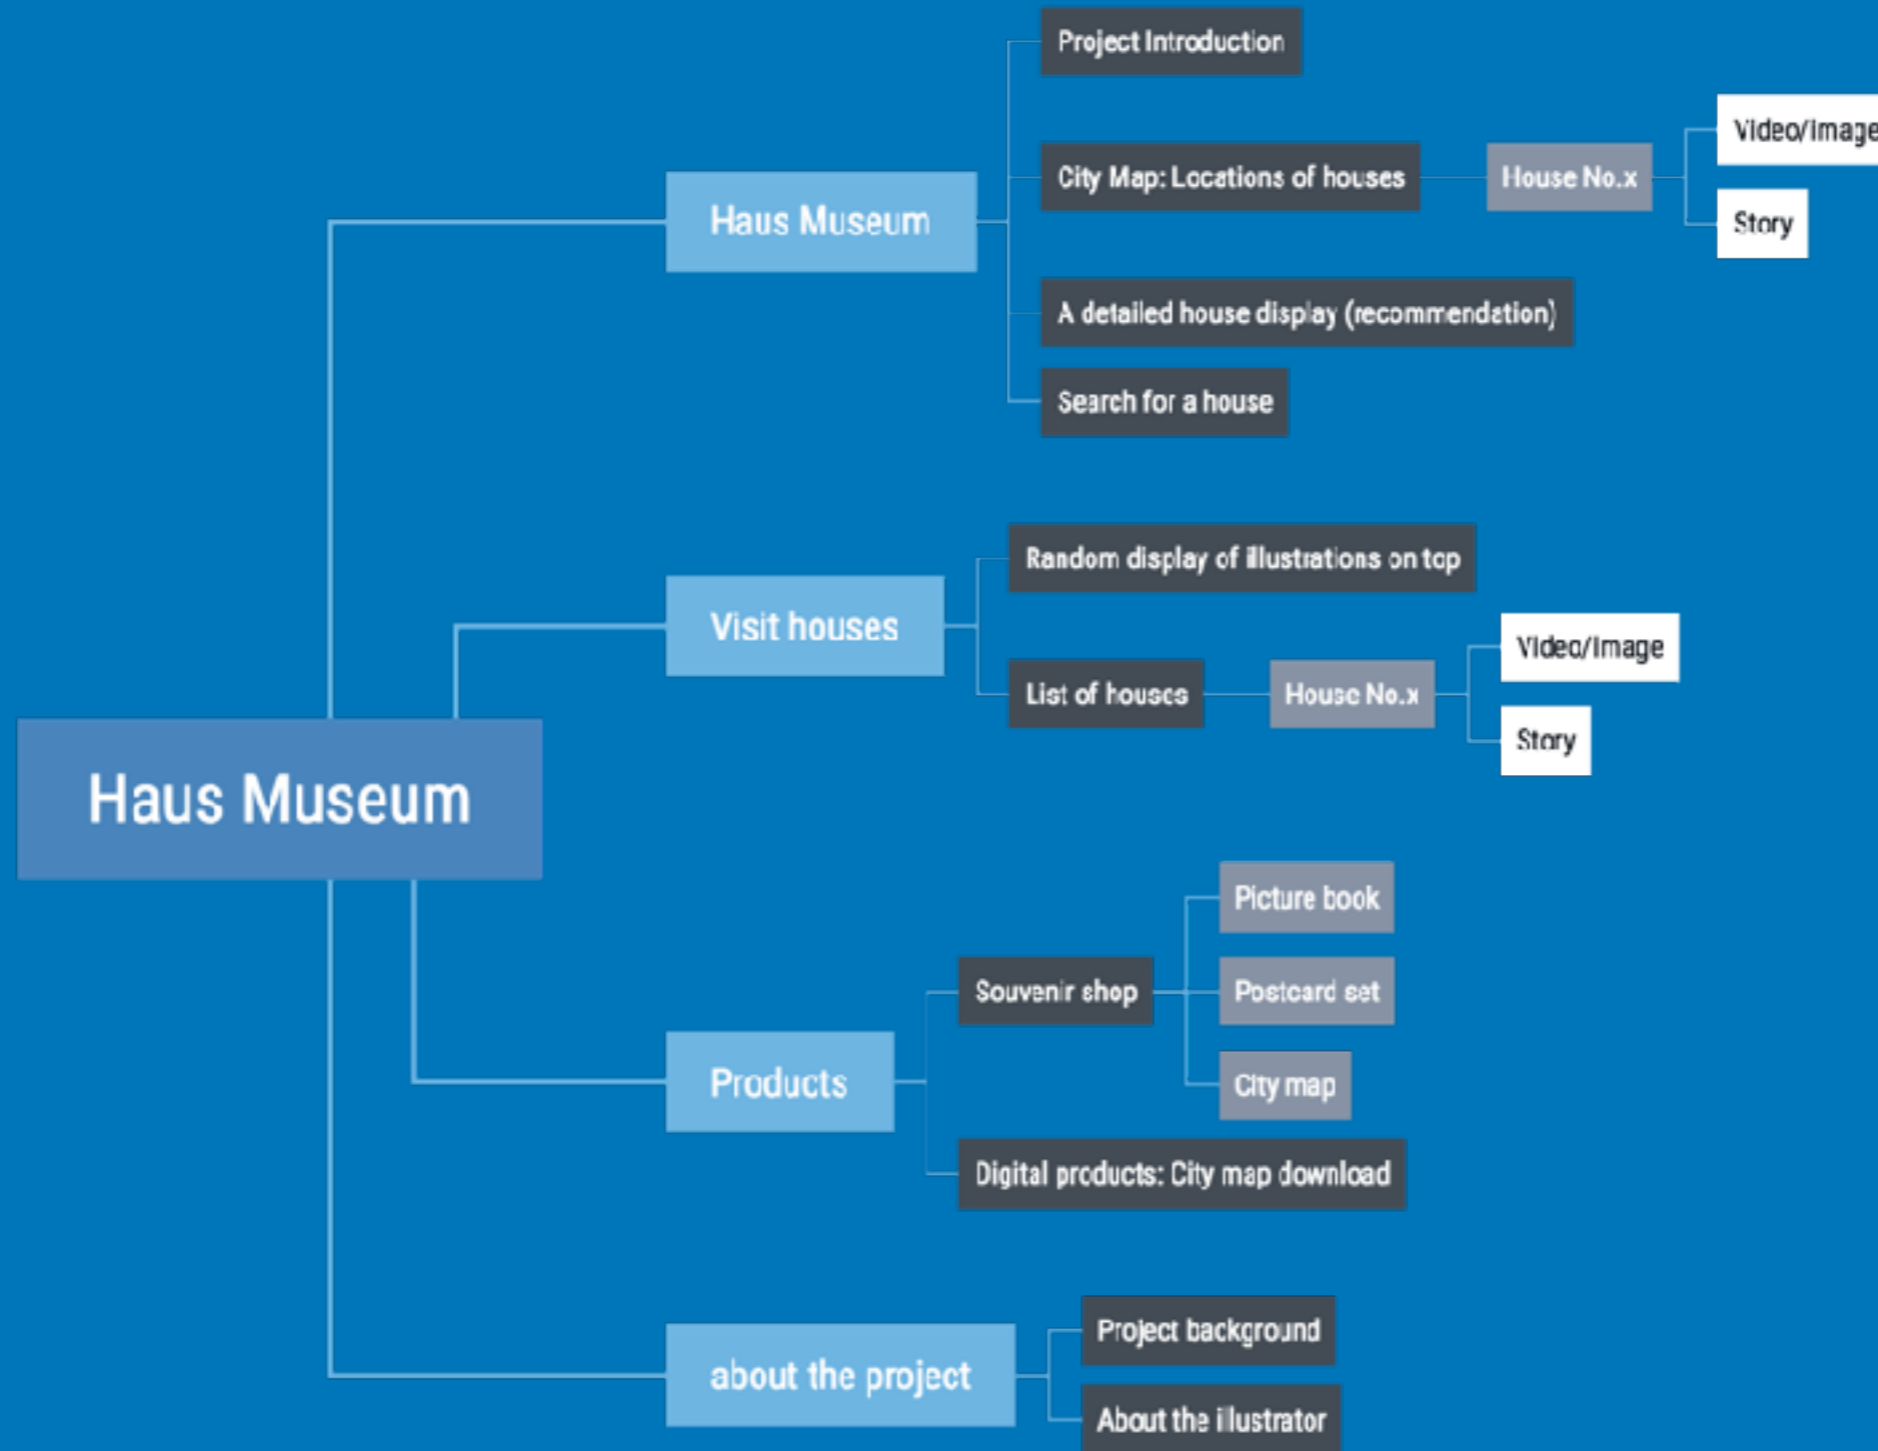

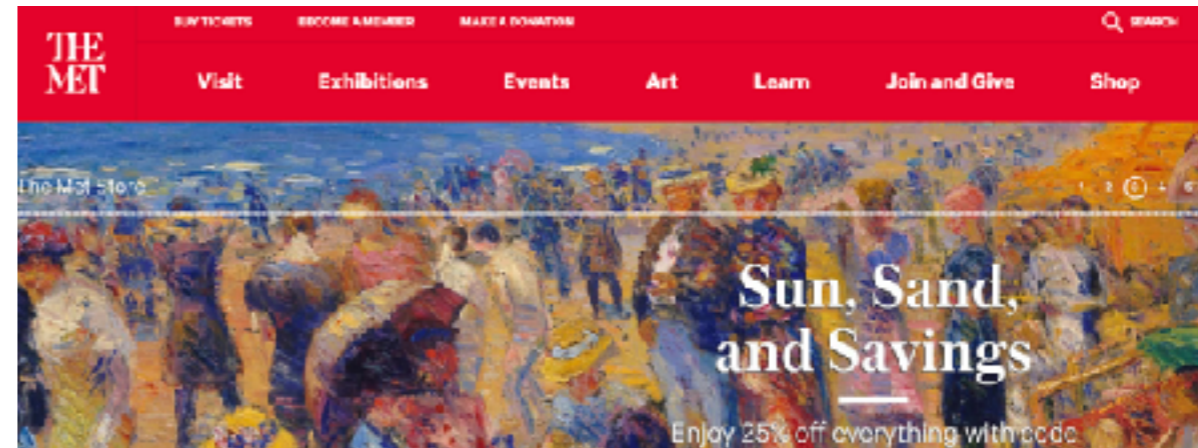

The audience

This website is initially targeted for those people who are not in weimar yet. It gives them a chance to first take a glance of the city, find what they are interested in and then plan for a trip to Weimar. They can take a look at the city map on our website, where all the houses will be pinned down to. People who are already in Weimar can just simply take the picture book for travel.

I hope this project can help attract more visitors to Weimar to explore not only the famous sites but also some ordinary buildings, which have their own unique charm as well.

Picture - <http://wilkinsonbrothers.com/portfolio/town-map-illustration/>

Some references

<https://www.vangoghmuseum.nl/en>

<https://www.metmuseum.org/>

<http://www.musee-orsay.fr/>

<https://www.ludwigmuseum.hu/>