		Google Play Store application has a set of different icons in its hamburger menu. “Redeem” stands for redeeming a code from a gift card. The current icon is just a rectangular shape with dots inside. It is not self-explanatory, it doesn’t say a user what will happen if it will be pressed. I propose to use another icon, which illustrates a plastic card with a scratch line and a bow knot on the top. The new icon provides a better visual reference of the gift card and explicitly tells the user that the he/she can “redeem a gift card” there. Image: Google Play Store Icon: I have edited the existing one in the Photoshop, however I have used the following source as an inspiration: https://www.iconfinder.com/search/?q=giftcard
