

Original

Proposal

Comments

The original Google Photos app icon does not seem very intuitive. Although Google projects excellent color combinations, the icon can be made to realise the connection between taking pictures and the memories which they capture.

The proposed icon has a positive vibe to it, while preserving the essence of a Google App, through its color combinations. The icon resembles a polaroid photograph, which is also known as the instant photograph