sometimes i feel i am not the one who is structuring what is coming from my mouth.

sometimes i feel there are some patterns, phrases and common places i am not thinking about. rather, i am just blindly using them.

they are structuring me instead. they are organizing my mind further, coming to the outside world by exiting my mouth, and creating a chain of further words, coming to the outside world by exiting my mouth, and creating a chain of further...

sometimes i feel words are just coming outside, alone, by themselves, creating sentences and invisible paragraphs.

sometimes i feel words are structuring and organizing my mind.

once i read a
poem and i asked
myself why the breaks
are placed like that w hy isnt
it dif f er e
nt
andwhy is it organizing tempo of my reading
so systematically

sometimes i am thinking out loud so i can make spontaneous order of my life, and words, coming to the outside world by exiting my mouth are creating a chain of further thoughts, coming to the outside world.
