

Story n°1

Phrase: Police officer finding a lost phone in a cab

Story: Police officer Hanna rushed late to a cab to get to the night shift.

Clumsy, as usual, she dropped her phone on the floor of the cab and it was too dark to find it. Fortunately, she was prepared for this kind of situation and used a device that she had on her watch. So when she clicked on the button it was measured the distance between the watch she was wearing and the phone. The phone had a feedback reaction to this. It starts blinking more and more often as she gets closer to him.
