

Story nº2

Phrase: A professor on a public transit bus needs help with shopping because she wants to develop a strong fashion sense.

Story: Professor/Designer Clara was on the public transit bus on her way to school when she got a call from her boss saying that she had the day off. So she decided to continue on the bus and go to the mall to buy some new clothes. But she had a problem... her fashion sense was not the best one and she didn't have any friends that could come along and help. Because she was color blind, she had an application on her phone that identified colors and saved good matches. So by scanning other people's clothes on the bus, she identified which colors were in vogue and saved the best matches.
