Story

A sick farmer went to the hospital to to know what was happening to him because he didn't feel well. The doctor said that he had a cancer thar was caused by food and also said that he can only know the possible cure if he knows what the farmer ate. The farmer thought maybe he got sick at home because he lives in a farmer and the ground could be infected or also maybe somo food was infected by insects or other animals. But then, he remembered that he went to a restaurant a couple of weeks ago. So, also because he didn't believe that his farmer was infected, then his family should be sick too, and they didn't. He came back at the restaurant with his device that would compare his symptoms of the disease with the food on restaurant. Also, the device would say which food was infected or poisoned, and which food infected could cause his disease. He wrote on the device his sympton, the name of his cancer and what could cause that illness. Then he'll research all food on the restaurant and the device will detect which was probably infected and will compare that infections with farmer's illness.
