

Warm Bench

Care and Empowerment through Textile

Craftivism

For our craftivism project, we would like to focus on the cold corners and surfaces of public space. Metal and stones are very robust, but also not very comforting. In contrast to this we would like to reuse old fabric and knit with them. Putting our work on benches in the city, for example at the bus stops where people would feel more comfortable and warm. An inspiration came from Korean bus stop benches which are sometimes heated to make them more inviting in the cold.
